R E A D E R.

HOWSOEVER customary it is to publish no Book without a Preface, yet this present Work had wanted one, but that it was supposed not altogether unnecessary to tell how much it out-does whatsoever has been heretofore attempted in this kind. What was done by Saxton and others in different ways, were all found to come so very far short of Perfection that the laborious Speed was from thence encourag'd to undertake to accomplish what they had little more than well intended, and he perform'd well; but then he proposing to himself, beside a List of the several Places, a History and Description also, his Work became bulky and very dear; and by making an Alphabet to each single County, rendred it useles to all those who were to seek for any Place, that knew not the County in which it was situate. Indeed about forty years since came out a Book entituled Villare Anglicum, but without any addition to the Name of the Place but only that of the County and Hundred; whereas herein, besides the many Additions, within the Space of one Line, by the help of the Symbols, are exhibited all the Circumstances of the Place sought, upon a sudden Inspection, to the most ordinary Capacity.

A D V E R T I S E M E N T.

I Have omitted one Symbol in the following Explanation, which in the INDEX is placed eight several ways, viz.  wherein the parallel Lines, thus expressed, do signifie the Bearing to LONDON, East, West, North, South, North-west, North-east, South-west, or South-east; and the Cypher represents the Town named in the INDEX.
